RE: WIC shoppers and recall of organic carrots

Action required: Share with all store managers and cashiers.

The Food & Drug Administration posted a recall by Grimmway Farms for organic whole carrots and organic baby carrots sold nationwide. See FDA's notice for the product labels Grimmway Farms carrots were sold under and the best-if-used by date range of the impacted carrots: https://www.fda.gov/safety/recalls-market-withdrawals-safety-alerts/grimmway-farms-recalls-organic-whole-and-select-organic-baby-carrots-may-be-consumers-homes-due?utm_medium=email&utm_source=govdelivery.

The voluntary recall is due to a possible health risk from E. coli. Consumers are urged to check their refrigerators and freezers for the recalled product and to either discard the product or return it to the store for a full refund. However, please remember:

Your WIC Vendor Agreement prohibits issuing cash refunds, in-store credits, or rainchecks on products purchased with eWIC (Part 3, 1, 1.3).

If a WIC shopper returns with recalled product, vendors may exchange the product for another WIC-authorized fruit or vegetable item that is of equal value than the recalled product.
